

NEW ZEALAND

LSSU Faculty-Led Study Abroad Program

DESTINATION:

New Zealand

DATES OF PROGRAM:

Spring Semester 2019 &
April 29-May 14, 2019 (travel)

COURSES:

6 credits
Cultural, Ecological and Human Health
Issues of New Zealand INTD200

PROGRAM FEE:

$4,050 (Includes $250 non-refundable
study abroad fee)

FEE INCLUDES:

Round-trip airfare, lodging, park
admission fees, travel and health insurance coverage, and some meals.

Not included: $25 non-refundable
application fee, passport, incidentals

FACULTY LEADERS:

Dr. Kathy Berchem
(kberchem@lssu.edu)

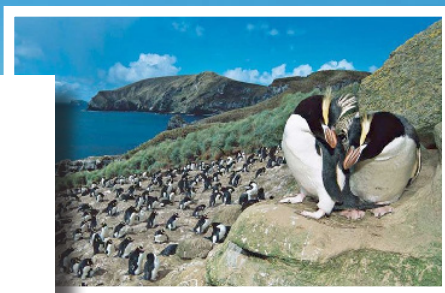

Dr. Ashley Moerke
(amoerke@lssu.edu)

APPLICATION DEADLINE:

November 19, 2018

APPLICATION FORM:

www.lssu.edu/studyabroad

DESCRIPTION: Explore awe-inspiring landscapes and become immersed in a diverse culture during a 16-day adventure through the North and South islands of New Zealand. Students will explore the unique biodiversity and ecology of marine and freshwater ecosystems, and New Zealand health care issues and indigenous health practices. Together, students will collaborate to understand the connections between the environment and human health, with a strong emphasis on values and perspectives of the indigenous Maori people. The travel will include unique cultural experiences, including visits to Maori meeting places and introductions to Maori ceremonial dances; stunning landscapes, including geothermal hot springs, glaciers, and marine reserves; and lively city life in Auckland, the most multicultural city in the world. A moderate level of activity will be required, including kayaking and hiking, so students should be prepared for physical activity. This adventure linking New Zealand culture, human health, and ecology through the "Lord of the Rings" landscapes promises to be an experience of a lifetime!

