Letter From President Hanley

Dear Lakers & Friends of Lake Superior State University,

Tradition at academic institutions has long included a convocation at the start of each academic year. Faculty and staff are called together to start the year with a shared understanding of the vision for the year ahead. Convocation in Fall of 2019 was an especially important moment in the life of Lake Superior State University. This marked the beginning of our new University Strategic Plan 2020-2025: Superior Education, Superior Experience, Superior You.

At this Convocation, I challenged the LSSU community to think strategically about the future of our University over the next five years – who we are, why do we do what we do, and how can we be better. Though I was hopeful for and expectant of great responses to a great challenge, I was overwhelmed by the response – a response that was drawn from among all constituents in the university as well as our broader constituent base and Sault Sainte Marie community.

For those of us in the Soo, the word “superior” is familiar. One of our bordering Great Lakes, Lake Superior, is a destination throughout the year for vacationing, boating, fishing, admiring, and for educating. Certainly at the University, Superior is part of our name and part of our identity. As we collectively thought through the challenges of the next five years and how we will meet – and overcome – the challenges facing the University while continuing our service to students, “superior” also became an important adjective that we used to describe not only what we do and how we do it, but also what comes of the students who experience it. We arrived, therefore, at the title, Superior Education, Superior Experience, Superior You.

This strategic plan outlines the ways we will enact the notions of a Superior Education, Superior Experience, Superior You. This threefold title, though, also transcends the plan and becomes our promise to our students who “Enter to Learn and Go Forth to Serve.”

We embark on this strategic plan at the same time that our country and world are fighting a global pandemic. We do so acknowledging the fears and concerns that all of us have for what the future holds. But we also know that we must be innovative, conscientious, and purposeful in navigating these trouble and uncharted waters. We also know that by continuing to rise to the occasion as Lakers do, we will prepare our students for the world ahead and establish a thrilling new chapter in the history of the institution. I am confident that we will get through this challenging time and collectively set a course for the future of Lake Superior State University that will inspire the entire Laker community.

The same innovation and spirit that brought about this strategic plan will continue to inform how we proceed and meet the challenges we have set for ourselves in these pages, and those that will arise as we advance as a university. I am proud to be a Laker and am thrilled to embark on this voyage with you. I hope you share in my excitement and that you will join me in rising to the challenges and opportunities ahead of us

As we meet and exceed what we have set before us in this strategic plan, I look forward to celebrating our accomplishments together and to delivering on our plans and promise of Superior Education, Superior Experience, Superior You.

Sincerely,

About Us

We at Lake Superior State University view the next five years as a pivotal period of the University's history. In light of the changing demographics in Michigan and in the U.S. as a whole, we realize that in order to thrive our University must be nimble, bold, and support a positive forward-thinking culture. In the Strategic Plan that follows, we not only accept that change is occurring, we willfully and enthusiastically embrace the inevitability of change and seek to become its catalyst. The pillars of the Strategic Plan are aspirational in nature and some of the goals will take years to achieve. We also recognize that strategic planning is not a single point in time but instead a continuous and evolving process.

Our primary role as a University is education. Our primary tool is quality teaching and learning. To be a world-class university in a changing world we must recognize our strengths, tackle our weaknesses through systematic continuous improvement, and welcome a culture of transformation. Therefore, with every goal we have asked ourselves "how will this goal positively affect student learning, provide them with needed resources, or later enhance their quality of life?"

Enter to Learn.
Go Forth to Serve.

Process

In August of 2019, the Board of Trustees of Lake Superior State University directed President Rodney Hanley to lead in the creation of a new Strategic Plan. Dr. Hanley proposed two broad philosophical questions and seven themes at the Faculty and Staff Convocation. The philosophical questions were, “What will it mean to be a great public university in a changing world?” and “How will LSSU uniquely embody this greatness?” Dr. Hanley appointed a Strategic Planning Committee to begin the process of drafting a new five-year plan.

The committee held listening sessions to give voice to multiple constituencies in the new Strategic Plan. These constituencies included students, faculty, staff, Tribal Leaders, advisory boards, alumni, and community members. An online survey was created to allow for anonymous input, and received 30 responses. Thirty-five sessions were held with a total attendance of over 300 people. The sessions were facilitated to focus on the future of the university and the directions needed to achieve a prosperous future.

This document truly represents broad input. The committee was given latitude to modify, delete, or add to the strategic pillars, which they did. They then identified goals and key strategies within each of the pillars based on input from listening sessions. A draft document was then sent to the President and Senior Management Team for their review, input and approval. The Board of Trustees received the plan in March 2020 and then ratified the Strategic Plan on April 24, 2020.

“What will it mean to be a great public university in a changing world?”

Executive Summary

Lake Superior State University is committed to providing students with a quality education through student-centered instruction that prepares them to meet today's workforce needs. Our value proposition is that we facilitate upward social mobility at a comparatively low cost. We realize that students are increasingly concerned with student debt. To that end, we commit ourselves to providing students with experiential learning activities using well-trained, caring faculty and staff, while also making efforts to maintain low operational expenses.

We are also committed to our promise to students: Superior Education, Superior Experience, Superior You. Through both curricular, co-curricular experiences, and extracurricular experiences, we train students to think critically, communicate effectively, and display professional and ethical behavior. Engaging in on-campus residential and extracurricular activities enhances the overall student experience, enriches students' learning, and creates constant moments of encounter and interaction with new worldviews, backgrounds, and perspectives. We believe that these experiences transform students and instill in them the knowledge, empathy, skills, and self-confidence to persist in their educational pursuits toward their long-term goals.

The Strategic Plan contains five pillars and three overarching themes. The three overarching themes are Global Interdependence, Social Mobility, and Innovation. Strategic actions arose frequently in these three areas. Further, these three areas overlap each of the pillars of the Strategic Plan. As such, we believe our Core Values will aspirationally lead to strategic actions over the five-year period of this Strategic Plan. Therefore, we will refer to them as Aspirational Values. Each pillar and aspirational value should also be viewed through the lens of Excellence in Teaching and Learning, with recognition that not all learning happens in the classroom.

Aspirational Values

Global Interdependence – As part of a global society we promote and celebrate exchange among world cultures through international student recruitment, on-campus support for international students, and promotion of opportunities abroad for students, faculty, and staff. Thus, we bring LSSU to the world and the world to LSSU.

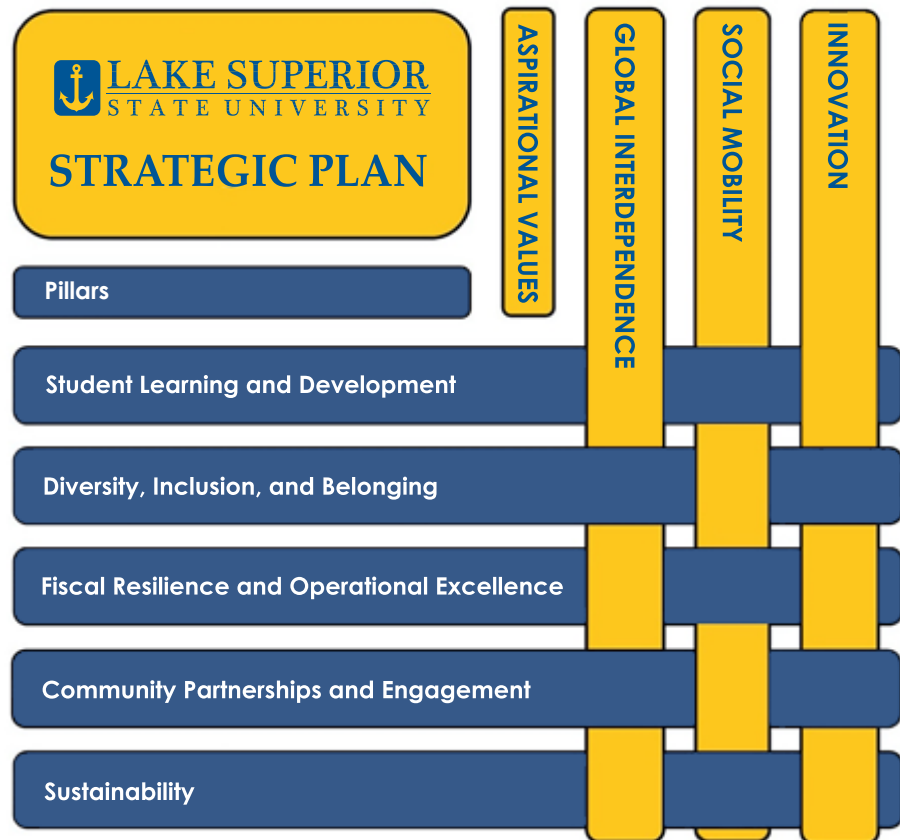

Social Mobility – At LSSU, we are committed to equal access to higher education opportunities that lead to social mobility. LSSU's supportive, personalized, and welcoming atmosphere particularly benefits first-generation students and those from diverse socioeconomic backgrounds. As one of the few four-year universities in Michigan that grants associate degrees, we are uniquely poised to serve students through the Tuition Incentive Program (or TIP) funding, while facilitating a smooth transition from an associate degree to a bachelor's degree with guaranteed application of all credits. We are committed to providing resources to students that lead to their success.

Innovation – LSSU embraces innovation as an aspirational value. Given demographic, political, technological, and policy shifts affecting higher education, the University cannot – and will not – stand still. Innovation in the context of this strategic plan means we will unveil new academic programs and enact new processes and methods of teaching; develop new enrollment-driven initiatives; enrich the student experience with both tradition and bold new efforts that enhance the overall student experience; and enhance support networks and interventions for student success. Our innovative process will rely on a strong culture of assessment and data-informed decisions to drive student success and University growth.

STRATEGIC PLAN

There are five priorities of the Strategic Plan that have been designated as pillars:

1. Student Learning and Development
2. Diversity, Inclusion, and Belonging
3. Fiscal Resilience and Operational Excellence
4. Community Partnerships and Engagement
5. Sustainability

PRIORITY 1

Culture of Student Learning and Development

Students coming to Lake Superior State University enter a Culture of Student Learning and Development. They become part of an environment that supports, challenges and transforms them. In this culture, we acknowledge that learning and development occur in the traditional academic settings of the classroom, the laboratory, and the library; but they also occur in the residence halls, in community spaces, and at a Lakers athletic events. Through curricular, co-curricular, and extracurricular experiences, students develop skills that transform them and set them on an upward social mobility trajectory. They are ready to excel in the jobs of today and have the training to keep them competitive in a rapidly changing, globally interdependent arena.

Transformation at LSSU is not reserved solely for students. Just as students are transformed by their education and LSSU experience, so too are their educators transformed by their faculty development and formation, research, and conference attendance. The constant evolution that occurs with comings and goings of students oblige the University, its faculty, and staff to adapt and respond to student needs, community needs, and emerging market trends to develop professionally prepared graduates who excel locally, nationally, and globally.

Goal 1.1

Revitalize and supplement academic offerings that respond to student needs and promote transformational growth.

- 1.1.3 Pursue the establishment of a community college as a separate entity within LSSU that serves vocational and technical education.
- 1.1.4 Expand and leverage the identity and successes of the Center for Freshwater Research and Education through the addition of new academic programming within it.

- 1.1.8 Expand career services to create more linkages between academic programming, and internship and job opportunities both in the U.S. and Canada.

Our mission, location, and pride of place – at the nexus of three Great Lakes – provide us with both the motivation and sense of urgency to protect our natural resources. Development of sustainability at LSSU requires that we push beyond our current boundaries toward new initiatives, requiring some initial investment and ultimately leading to a healthier planet, enriched academic experiences, and ongoing institutional savings. We believe LSSU is ready for this challenge.
